HUNTLEY'S

COMPLETE

School of Harmony

FOR THE BANJO.

COMPILED BY JOHN H. LEE.

The Most Valuable Work Ever Issued.

A Book of Over 100 Pages.

This work embraces a complete treatise on chord construction, the relation of chords and their application in musical progression, also modulation from each key to all other keys, with rules for same. It contains all chords that can be made on a banjo, correctly written and carefully fingered, giving their derivation and construction; also the "COMPOSER'S GUIDE," (a practical key to all chords with or without a knowledge of chord-construction) for the aid of composers and arrangers of banjo music. It teaches how to write chords correctly by the system of intervals, and gives comprehensive examples in all matters pertaining to harmony that are of practical utility to the modern banjoist. Every teacher should have one. Very handy to refer to in arranging. Every pupil should have one, as it is instructive. This book will undoubtedly be a standard work, and the authority for banjo music.

PRICE, $1.50.

The above Book sent to any address on receipt of marked price, also any piece of music in this Catalogue.
